

“YOU’RE OFF TO GREAT PLACES.
TODAY IS YOUR DAY!
YOUR MOUNTAIN IS WAITING,
SO GET ON YOUR WAY!”
DR. SEUSS

This Week in Third Grade...

Math: The next few days students will be continuing and concluding their Hilton Head Capstone project. On Friday, students concluded “grocery shopping” and calculating the cost of their bill. The Hilton Head adventure will continue as we move through the week reviewing concepts learned throughout this year!

Reading: This week, students will be reviewing vocabulary words throughout the year as well as focusing on learning new latin and greek words and figurative language. Students will be participating in one of three guided reading groups until the end of the year reading a famous “classic” piece of literature. The choices are as follows: Les Miserables, The Jungle Book and Robinhood. Students will each be assigned a role every time they read one or two chapters to focus on a specific section of the story that is of interest to them! This is a great way to end the year and the students are truly excited about these novels.

Read Aloud: Students will be embarking upon one final writing adventure that goes along with a book entitled “What Do you Do with an Idea?” Together, we will talk about our ideas for the future.

Handwriting: Students completed their final cursive project which was through writing their autobiography in cursive. The cursive I have seen this year has been absolutely outstanding! I am so very proud of each and every one of them.

Social Studies: Students will be concluding their final cultural report this week through the writing of small mini-paragraphs to make a complete report! We will also be concluding this project with a small artistic project about their cultural research.

Third Grade Power Team

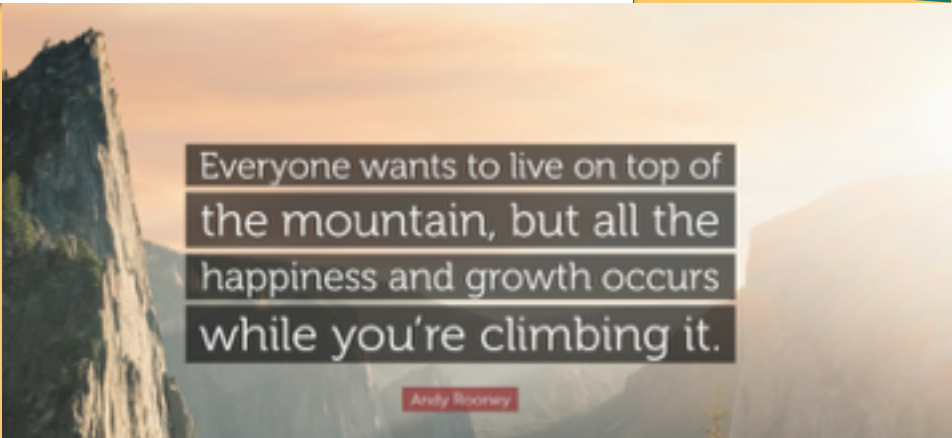

Ms. Amoscato’s News

Dear Families,

It has been an honor and privilege getting to know each and every one of my students this year! Every scholar in my classroom has grown academically in reading, math, writing, science and social studies! We have completed countless writing projects, difficult math problems, engineering endeavors and cultural studies to look at the world in a different way. We have focused on neat handwriting, growing confident in our abilities as learners, slowing ourselves down (“the slowest one wins the race”) and taking humble pride in everything we have accomplished. As a family, we have learned to cooperate and collaborate, to come to a compromise, to respect other people’s opinions, to realize that everyone in the classroom thinks differently and to appreciate diversity. We have stopped to laugh together when times get funny and we have cried together when times have become a bit difficult. It is always unbelievable to look back at the beginning of the year and to see just how far we have come as a 3A Power Team. Truly, it has been a beautiful year, and I thank you for giving support with homework and helping your scholar study for their tests, for teaching them important life lessons, and making sure they realize that they are so very loved.

I am incredibly thankful for my vocation, and I feel blessed to be surrounded by such a wonderfully loving group of parents. Thank you for all that you do.

With love,
Mrs. Amoscato

Upcoming Tests

There will be no tests
this week.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS

Our Class Pizza Party: Tuesday
Move Up Day: Wednesday
Field Day: Thursday ALL DAY!
Friday: Success Assembly and Last Day of School